SHEET, TUBE CO. TO PUT WAGES UP 15 PER CENT

Minimum Rate of 40 Cents
an Hour Also Adopted in Youngstown

NEW SCALE WILL BE EFFECTIVE SUNDAY

Republic Iron and Steel
Corporation, Other
Mills to Follow

YOUNGSTOWN, July 15.—The Youngstown Sheet & Tube company, with its employees' representatives, will announce at a meeting Monday, that effective Sunday, July 16, all wages will be increased 15 per cent with a minimum rate of 40 cents an hour.

The Republic Iron & Steel corporation and other mills are expected to follow.

Frank Purnell, president of Sheet & Tube, made the announcement that company, and B. F. Fair, executive vice president for the Republic. Purnell said hours would be determined by the national code.

File Industrial Code

WASHINGTON, July 15.—The steel industry today filed with the recovery administration a code of fair competition to increase wages and spread employment through a major portion of this fundamental trade.

Robert P. Lamont, head of the Iron and Steel Institute, and president of United States Steel corporation, brought the agreement to Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator.

It was definitely understood that well in excess of 90 per cent of the steel production of the country was represented in the agreement. Its actual terms were not disclosed but Johnson and Lamont immediately began a scrutiny of the important document.

CLEVELAND, July 15.—The Corbin McKimney Steel company today announced it would raise wages 15 per cent, effective tomorrow, with a minimum rate of 40 cents per hour.

The increase will affect approximately 5,000 workers.

Hitch-Hike Trip To Chicago Ends In Hospital Here

A hitch-hiking trip to the world fair at Chicago has ended abruptly for two Pittsburgh, Pa., youths, one of whom today is in a serious condition at the Salem City hospital, suffering from injuries sustained when he fell from a truck near Columbus Friday night.

He is Nick Agapione, 19, who, with his older brother John, left their home in Pittsburgh yesterday for a "thumping" jaunt to the world's fair wonders.

Agapione is suffering from probable concussion of the brain, a severe head laceration and body bruises, sustained when the truck on which they were riding, suddenly hit a bump in the East Palestine-Columbus highway, throwing him head first onto the pavement.

A passing motorist brought Nick to the Salem hospital where the full extent of his injuries have not yet been ascertained.

The older brother accompanied him to Salem and, refusing to continue on the trip to Chicago alone, last night was given lodging at the city jail.

Balbo Armada, Landing, Presents Spectacular Scene

This airplane view shows all twenty-four of General Balbo's air armada ships safely moored at Cartwright, Labrador, after their thrilling 1500-mile flight from Iceland. Girl, Hurt, Found Near Hanoverton; Won't Tell Name

A girl who refused to divulge her identity was found injured and in a semi-conscious condition Friday night beside a highway near Hanoverton.

The girl is reported to have been seen lying beside the highway by two Hanoverton boys who notified Marshal W. L. Fultz. A passing motorist, however, brought her to the village where her injuries were treated by Dr. H. J. Pelley.

County authorities were notified by Marshal Fultz and they took her to a New Garden home, where the girl said she was visiting. Deputy Sheriff George Hayes investigated the case.

The girl is said by authorities to have told conflicting stories on being questioned by Fultz and Hayes. She sustained a severe laceration on her forehead. The injury is believed to have been caused when she fell against bricks piled beside the highway.

After claiming she was thrown out of the machine, the girl is said by authorities to have altered her story, saying that she stepped out of the auto and fell head first into the pile of bricks.

She also refused to tell authorities the name of the motorist.

Wide Range Sound Enhances Talkies

Western Electric Wide Range sound, hailed as the forerunner of a new era of entertainment, will be heard for the first time Sunday in Salem at the State theater.

The State is among the first theaters in the country to install this new, advanced equipment which will be given a full test of its capabilities in the tuncful talkie, "Melody Cruise," opening Sunday for a two-day run.

The outstanding feature of this new sound development is a clear, lifelike quality that has never before been heard in talking pictures. This has been accomplished through an extension of the frequency range of sounds that can be recorded and reproduced.

The result is that sounds of both high and low extremes, as whippers or thunder, can be heard at their natural level without distortion. A more sweeping effect of great volume is attained. Dialogue that formerly was toneless becomes vibrant.

The effect is even more marked in musical numbers where Wide Range, through its enlarged range, makes it possible to record and reproduce each instrument as distinctively as if each were playing solo. The carrying volume of organ recitals is reproduced with pronounced power.

BALBO'S PLANES OFF TO CHICAGO

Leave Montreal on 750-Mile Flight to Chicago and Fair

MONTREAL, July 15.—General Italo Balbo hopped off from here today, leading his trans-Atlantic Italian air armada on the last stage of its flight to Chicago.

The flagship, leader of the squadron of 24 seaplanes, raised its nose from the water at 10:14 a. m., eastern standard time, and followed by two others to form the first triad of the flight, soared aloft.

Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to the United States, was in the general's plane, accompanying him on today's flight, along Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

In groups of threes the other powerful monoplanes rose amid the cheers of a great throng and joined the formation for its journey of 750 miles to Chicago, the goal of the long flight from Italy.

Before leaving, General Balbo said that he proposed to follow a course which would take him over Toronto, Buffalo and Toledo.

Edworth League To Sponsor Film

Many Salem people will spend their way to the Methodist church at 8 p. m. Wednesday to see the beautiful moving pictures of the "Life of Christ and the Passion Play," depicting the story of Jesus, from the Nativity to the Ascension, and embracing reproductions of many famous scenes from both the Freiburg and the Oberammergau Passion plays, in Europe.

The pictures are sponsored by the Edworth League.

A complete and very beautiful musical score will accompany the entire film, on specially selected recordings of appropriate orchestral, organ and choral music of famous composers, blending in with the magnificent scenes which portray in authentic and historic fashion, the Life, Crucifixion and Resurrection of Jesus.

The film was produced in Europe, the Holy Land, and Egypt and has won the profound admiration and approval of several hundred of the largest churches in the United States, having been exhibited to more than a quarter of a million people during the last year. This program is one of unusual beauty, and has been highly praised where it has been heard. There will be a silver offering to assist in defraying expenses.

St. Swithin's Day— Rains For 40 Days If It Rains Today

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 15.—This is St. Swithin's day. So what? So this: If it rains today it will rain for 40 days. The legend says so, and those who go for legends can make the most of it.

The story is that Mr. Swithin, who became a bishop in England in the ninth century and counselor to Ebert, the West Saxon king, died; and that, dying he begged to be buried just outside the cathedral, where water from the caves would fall upon his grave.

That was the way it was done. The rain dripped down upon the grave of the saint, and many persons who came there to pray, reported miraculous cures. These they attributed to him.

So numerous were the cures that the church authorities built a shrine in the cathedral and placed the body of the saint therein. This irked the country folk who had an idea that the churchmen were flaunting the wishes of their saint.

The heavens, too, wept. Legend relates that rain fell continuously for 40 days.

Down through the years the legend has come, taking on new form from time to time, so that the argument now is that if rain falls on July 15, rain will fall on the 40 subsequent days. On the other hand, if it be fair, it will be fair for 40 days.

We've Turned Depression's Corner, Says Leonard Ayres

Noted Economist Declares Recovery Is Going Forward at Fastest Pace in History

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Business recovery in the United States, Col. Leonard P. Ayres said today, "is going forward at the most rapid rate ever reached in our economic history," and business man "may confidently expect higher prices for commodities, increasing wage rates and advancing quotations for securities."

Furthermore, he said, "if the policy of our government to have this present price advance the last one that we shall ever experience is successfully put into effect we need not fear a decline after this price advance has run its course."

Colonel Ayres, economist, outlined his views in the monthly business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co., of which he is vice president.

Keep Dollars Busy

"The problem of the business man," he said, "is to take full advantage of the general price increase while it still continues, remembering that dollars not actively employed are constantly shrinking in value."

He drew his conclusions from the message sent by President Roosevelt to the world economic conference on July 3. That message, he said, "takes the definite stand that this government is not willing to enter into any arrangement at this time for stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar. The clear purpose of this declared policy is that the administration intends to strive for higher general price levels here."

Corner Is Turned

The corner of the depression in this country, he said, "was turned between the first and second quarters of this year. X x x Activity in business is increasing more than twice as swiftly as it has done in any previous period of upturn from depression conditions, and at a pace about five times as rapid as that attained in 1915, when the huge war orders poured in from Europe."

X x x

"It is not now possible to judge whether or not so rapid an advance will prove to be undesirably swift, for there is no similar previous case with which to make comparisons."

STEUBENVILLE MAN, PRISONER, SKIPS HOSPITAL

Steals Clothes From Fellow Patient, Walks Out of Clinic

FACED CHARGES
IN TRUCK THEFT

Was Slated to Appear in Common Pleas Court
Tuesday

Taken to the hospital Wednesday because of illness, Thomas Furbee, 33, of Steubenville, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of operating a motor vehicle without consent of the owner, walked out of the Central Clinic to freedom Friday afternoon.

Furbee, declared by county authorities to be a dope addict, stole a suit of clothes belonging to a fellow patient, Edward Locke of Lisbon, and is believed by authorities to have walked out of the hospital where he joined friends awaiting him in an automobile.

Hospital attaches notified Police Chief Ralph Stoffer and Sheriff Frank Ballantine, a search being started immediately for the missing man.

Furbee was arrested two weeks ago in connection with the theft of a truck from the Railway Express company in East Liverpool. He was indicted by a special grand jury, and recently, on arraignment before Common Pleas Judge W. F. Lones, entered a plea of not guilty.

He was scheduled to appear in Judge Lones' court for trial Thursday, the hearing being postponed because of the defendant's illness. Furbee, indicted Tuesday, was brought to the clinic the following day.

No guard was provided for the man, Clinic attaches said.

Visited by Relatives

He was visited by relatives from Steubenville Thursday evening and yesterday continued to look out the window of the hospital, apparently awaiting the appearance of friends, according to police.

Later, while Locke was sleeping, police say he put on the Lisbon man's clothes and walked out of the hospital.

Patrolman Edward Piller and Deputies George Hayes and Paul Early assisted in the search. County authorities extended their hunt into Mahoning county last night but today reported no trace had been obtained of the fugitive's whereabouts.

Steubenville and Jefferson county authorities have been requested by Sheriff Ballantine to maintain a lookout for him.

Wiley Post Soloing Around World

2 Fliers Defy Government And Take Off for Lithuania

Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas Start 4,900-Mile Flight Without Permits

NEW YORK, July 15.—The monoplane Lithuanica took off on a projected 4,900-mile non-stop flight to Lithuania today, without approval of the American government and with the prospect of two pilots subjecting themselves to a "spanking" if they should land in any country short of their goal.

The plane, which left Floyd Bennett field at 5:14 a. m., eastern standard time, was flown by Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, Lithuanian-Americans from Chicago.

They took off just an hour and 14 minutes after Wiley Post had begun his solo world flight from the same field.

Darius and Girenas have been in altercat on with official Washington about permits to fly over countries between America and Lithuania and left without obtaining these permits. The argument had centered about the question of who should pay $100 for cost of cables to the countries in question.

The fliers took off without informing field officials of their intention an act commerce department officials in Washington said when informed of their action. That if they should land in some country on their route it would not only be embarrassing to the American government but would make the fliers subject to a "spanking" by that country.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 15.—Wiley Post, 35-year-old Oklahoman took off from Floyd Bennett field at 4:10 a. m. (eastern standard time) headed out over the Atlantic ocean on his attempt to fly alone, around the world.

Flying the Winnie Mae and He was flying the white and purple Lockheed monoplane Winnie Mae in which he and Harold Gatty made their "round-the-world record" of 8 days, 15 hours, 51 minutes, in 1931. This time he hopes to do it faster.

"I'll be back as quick as possible," he shouted.

Only two bad spots of weather were reported ahead of him on the first leg of his trip, the 3,900 miles to Berlin. There was a low pressure area off the Atlantic coast near New York, which he intended to fly around, and rain off the coast of Ireland, which he plans to fly through.

The heavily loaded Winnie Mae ran the length of the runway before she got into the air. Post bounced

Post's Schedule

NEW YORK, July 15.—Wiley Post intends to make only six stops on his flight around the world. They, and the distances between them in miles, are:

Novosibirsk-Khabarovsk	2,250
Khabarovsk-Fairbanks	3,000
Fairbanks-Edmonton	1,450

He expected the Winnie Mae's cruising speed of 170 miles an hour to be increased at least 25 miles by a strong supporting west wind. The airplane has a top speed of 210 miles an hour.

Robot Pilot to Help
Although Post flies alone, he will have the aid of a robot assistant pilot, a mechanical apparatus designed to keep the plane on its course and maintain its altitude and lateral stability without human aid. Post says it will permit him to doze

Three Will Start Terms Next Week

LISBON, July 15.—Edgar Vesa, East Liverpool, who recently entered a plea of guilty to an indictment charging him with burglary and larceny, will be taken to the Mansfield reformatory next week to begin serving a sentence of one to 15 years. The costs in this case have been placed at $40.10.

Elisha Tucker of Madison township, who entered pleas of guilty to two indictments, one for receiving and concealing stolen property and also burglary and larceny, will go to the Ohio penitentiary next week to serve sentences of one to seven and one to 15 years. Costs in this case are $146.78.

James Buefield, St. Clair township, will also be taken to the penitentiary next week to serve a sentence for burglary and larceny and automobile stealing. Costs in this case are $41.10.

A Month Later

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 15.—Do you remember some of the statements before the London conference started? The world was to stop revolving, air was to lose its oxygen, if the conference failed.

Herriot of France said: "America and France look with a like purpose on economic problems; the conference must succeed."

Cordell Hull really waxed dramatic: "The failure of the conference will mean the failure of statesmanship. Selfishness must be banished from all minds."

Well, the thing has flopped and we are getting along better than ever. It just shows that nothing is important a month later.

The funny part about it is that all of those statesmen really thought they were going to "make history." Well, history makes itself and the statesmen just drag along.

Yours,
Will Rogers

HIGH COURAGE

The news story out of Parsons, Kan., about the bank cashier who killed one bandit and seriously wounded another, is heartening to law abiding citizens, contra-wise it must discourage the criminally intended.

Isaac McCarty, 35, saw his duty and never flinched despite the fact that a slight error in aim would have seriously wounded or perhaps killed his wife who was held as a shield by the bandit slain. It developed that both bandits were participants in the Memorial day prison break from the Kansas penitentiary when 11 convicts escaped by kidnapping the warden.

News stories relate that McCarty, standing on the bank's vault concealed by a curtain he had erected for just such an emergency, dropped one man with the blast from a shotgun. Outside a passer-by noted the robbery in progress, shot the tires from the bandits' car. The remaining bandit, believing that his companion had been felled from a shot from outside the bank, grabbed Mrs. McCarty, dropped with her behind a counter and then instructed another employee in the bank to go into the street and order the firing ceased or he would kill the woman.

McCarty from his perch had to act quickly. He put down his shotgun and picked up his rifle. The bandit's head showed above his wife's body. McCarty took careful aim, breathing a prayer his sights were right. He fired once, twice, then called to his wife. She was not hurt but the bandit was dead.

Here was an act that displayed unquestioned courage and a steady nerve. Neither the husband or wife faltered, each fully conscious that a human life hung in the balance.

Courage of this sort seldom is encountered by highwaymen, who, in the majority, turn yellow when fate places them at a disadvantage.

A medal to banker McCarty.

HASTENING RECOVERY

With the nation's industry entering the period of normal summer listlessness, developments in Washington indicate President Roosevelt is determined to apply greater and greater pressure to make the results of his recovery program to take concrete form by showing a gain in retail sales as the result of increased purchasing power.

During the week Mr. Roosevelt has shown his vigorous plans with these developments:
Appointment of a "super-cabinet" to coordinate recovery work.

Consideration of sample codes to be formulated by the government for those industries which appear unwilling to draw up their own order of the strongest powers provided in the recovery act.

Throughout the development of the recovery program, Mr. Roosevelt has been faced with the necessity of making purchasing power march hand in hand with increase in prices. Now he finds that prices rise much easier than purchasing power, with the result that this program must turn with greater emphasis toward wages.

In considering purchasing power, Mr. Roosevelt will be most interested in agriculture and industry because the 1930 census showed that these two fields accounted for more than one-half of all gainfully employed in that year—29 per cent in manufacturing and mechanical industries and 21½ per cent in agriculture.

The 10 manufacturing industries with the greatest number of wage earners in 1929 together accounted for 41 per cent of all wage-earners in manufacturing and the 10 next for 16 per cent more as follows:

Lumber, timber, planing mills 501,000; foundry, machine shop goods, 458,000; automobiles 448,000; cotton goods 426,000; iron and steel 420,000; railroad repair and car shops 398,000; electrical goods and machinery 329,000; boots and shoes 222,000; bakery products 193,000; furniture 192,000; knit goods 184,000; women's clothing 184,000; men's clothing 178,000; printing, book and job 151,000; woolen, worsted goods 143,000; newspapers, magazines 134,000; silk and rayon goods 126,000; meat packing 121,000; cigars, cigarettes 116,000 paper 102,000.

What Others Say

NOVELTY

The world has moved rather fast in the last two decades. Twenty years ago a common type of news report was the human interest story of some one getting their first ride in an automobile. Occasionally there was the story of some hardy old resident getting up nerve enough to take a train ride.

Now the automobile is so common that it is an extraordinary event when some bewhiskered old timer is dragged out of the hinterland and treated to his first ride, as happened recently in North Carolina.

Of course there are great numbers who even yet haven't ridden in an automobile. More surprising, however, is the number of young folks one finds who never have been aboard a train. They've been in autos and airplanes, but they've missed trains, street cars, interurbans, horses and sleighs. — Ohio State Journal.

The Stars Say:

For Sunday, July 16

Sunday's horoscope while holding promise of advancement and church, charity and state, with professed ambitions for affairs of motion, popularity and friendly cooperation of those in high places, yet is also adverse to many interests, business and personal. Delay, private sorrow and disappointment may offset some excellent prospects. Sign all writings with care.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of conflicting conditions, with some excellent promise of progress and prosperity, and favors or substantial aid from those in places of power, but these subjects to delays, impediments and frustrations. Or domestic sorrow or illness may contribute an obstacle to embracing these splendid opportunities. Patience and courage will win.

A child born on this day may be efficient, ambitious and industrious, but may be hampered by melancholy, distrust and suspicion.

Notable nativity: Mary Baker Eddy, founder Christian Science.

For Monday, July 17

Monday's astrological forecast, according to the lunar transits, is a fortunate one for those in employment, although there is some possibility of sudden change, journey, removal or new associations and interests. It is an auspicious time for working for favors or preferment from those in power and authority. All new projects should thrive under this beneficent and with this promise of friendly aid.

Those whose birthday it is are particularly happy in having a promising horoscope for advancement in employment, with the assurance of the favors, honors and substantial recognition of those in place of authority. Change seems probable, with new interests, environment and associations, but this not to be a major degree of importance.

A child born on this day should be ambitious, adventurous and capable, and should enjoy the favoritism of those in authority.

Notable nativity: Isaac Watts, hymn writer.

Bringing Home the Bacon

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland

Health Value of Bran

Our modern, refined foods contain too little of the bulk required to make the system function properly. This is one example of the many ways in which we are the victims of so-called "progress."

To promote normal elimination many foods have been recommended. Bulk foods of one sort and another have been tried. Bran has been used successfully for this purpose, but there has been considerable controversy concerning its real effect upon the human system.

At least two laboratory investigations, as well as the many experiences of physicians and laymen have proved that with healthy men and women, bran has a definite value in promoting proper elimination.

Five Cases Out of Six

Two eminent scientists, Drs. G. R. Cowell and A. J. Sullivan, recently completed a study of six men, all of whom had suffered from constipation for a considerable period. They report that in five cases out of the six, the use of bran was effective in correcting the constipation. The exception was a man who was unable to tolerate bulk either in the form of bran, fruits or vegetables.

This case would be diagnosed by the doctors as "irritable colon." The other persons were free from any organic disease of the gastro-intestinal tract.

These authorities and others agree that when the bowel is highly irritable, narrowed or ulcerated it should not be subjected to the overstimulating effects of fibrous or bulky foods. Such persons need specially prescribed diets, taken under medical supervision. In these cases it is not bran alone that should be avoided. Other fibrous foods, spinach, for example, cannot be eaten without bad effects. Fortunately these cases represent only a small percentage among those who suffer from constipation.

Not a Cure-All

In an investigation at the nutrition laboratory, Teachers' college, Columbia university, particular attention was devoted to the effects of bran on the alimentary tract. Albino rats, animals whose digestive processes closely resemble those of the human, were the subjects of the experiment.

The report says: "In every one of the twenty-two rats fed bran, as well as the two controls which ate no bran, the tissues were diagnosed as normal, no lesions of any kind being found. Therefore, it is concluded that bran fed in moderate quantities, such as is usual in human consumption, will not damage the tissues of the normal alimentary tract." Tests made on healthy young women have borne out this conclusion.

Bran is not a cure-all, of course. But the weight of evidence shows that in the case of the normal, healthy individual, bran is effective in promoting proper elimination, and is without harmful effects. It may be that some of the unfavorable statements made concerning bran have been based upon opinions, not upon research. It is safe to say that in persons of fairly normal health, its possible benefits outweigh the objections urged against its use in the diet.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, July 15—While redecorating was being done in the family bedroom, I decided to spend a night in one of those flashy off-Broadway hotels. I heard of one whose clientele consisted largely of doubtful figures in the White Way flow, gents who live by wits and such.

The clerk who roomed me asked cash in advance, although I carried toilet accessories in a hand grip. The bell-boy was the alert type of hustler who inquired solicitously if I might be needing anything to drink. And seemed annoyed when I replied ice-water would suffice.

After looking about the room and doubtful of ability to sleep I went to the lobby and lounged in one of the deep-cushioned wall divans. The lobby was milling with after-theater crowds, the usual sort, but perhaps my imagination was keyed up to regard it as a little more tense.

A hard-bitten maewestish blonde with a forlorn poodle and continuing cough, took a seat near and watched the revolving door expectantly. Her wait was rewarded by a chunky fellow, sporting a Brazil diamond, who chirped: "Lo, Kittchen." They talked in whispers and he went out. A gigolo!

I was interested in her part of the drama of a Times Square night. Her cough had an alarming rasp. In a minute or so she went up in the elevator and soon came down again. Without her poodle—eyes kohled and lips freshly reddened. I followed her across Broadway and eastward over 44th st. Midway the block she stopped to talk to a man unsteady on his feet, an easy pickup. They walked off quickly.

In front of the Lamb's Pat, the night elevator man for more than 30 years, was trying to tag a vagrant breeze. Pat is one of life's Tommy Pops who brings to the bleak security of his job sudden murmured wisdoms and shy humor. On the down-hill coast he is content to rub elbows with and run inglorious errands for stage celebrities. Pat lost many friends the past few years—friends who idled a moment to exchange confidences: Wilton Lackey, Winchell Smith, James J. Corbett, Fritz Williams, William Courtney, Willis P. Sweetnam and the more youthful Jack Donahue who would do a diminutive version of an old Irish jig for Pat. If no one were around.

Arnold Bennett, most accomplished of prowlers, would enjoy the Roaring Forties in that dead calm before the city swims up from its deep well of sleep. Shady hotels now and then erupt couples, sheepishly furtive. A woman seemed stricken under the Belasco theater marquee. Taxis swerved in to her but quickly shot away. Sprawling figures, mouth agape, in a Hippodrome tawney. A single light blazed in the lobby of the Algonquin. The attendant at an all night shooting gallery in Sixth ave., yawned, reached in an upper shirt pocket for "the makings."

CAPTAIN DIES AS SHIP BURNS

31 Members of Tanker's Crew Saved Off North Carolina

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, July 15.—Capt. F. L. Sears went down with his burning ship, the tanker Cities Service Petrol in the Atlantic off Wilmington, N. C., last night, while two other American merchant ships stood by and rescued 34 members of the crew.

Two other men went down with Capt. Sears. They were reported killed aboard before the ship sank. One was an engine wiper, George Rumminger. The name of the other was not immediately available.

Save Crew

The rescue ships were the tanker Gulf Gen and the steamer Tri-Mountain 10.

Immediately after the Petrol sank, enveloped in flames with Capt. Sears alive and at his post the Gulf Gen turned off her searchlight and put the survivors, some of whom were injured, at Charleston, S. C. It was presumed the Tri-Mountain accompanied her.

Wireless reports received by the Radio Marine Corporation pointed the outlines of the grim sea picture in sketchy details.

The Gulf Gen messaged: "Burning tanker Cities Service Petrol sank first at 11:30 p. m. but after eight men were taken off in heavy seas by boat crew of Gulf Gen."

"Captain refused to leave his burning ship and two other men were killed aboard."

No S. O. S. Heard

If the doomed ship was able to send an S. O. S. wireless stations more evidently did not pick it up. First word came at 12 p. m. Eastern standard time, from the Gulf Gen, which reported she was standing by a burning ship, together with the Tri-Mountain. It was considered likely that the flames had summoned them.

The messages indicated that the Petrol had been able to launch only two of her lifeboats, for the Tri-Mountain reported picking up one boat and rescuing 19 men, and the Gulf Gen saved another with 16 aboard.

Rescue of the eight other survivors was accomplished by a lifeboat from the Gulf Gen.

40 Chicagoans Are Under Police Guard

Elaborate efforts were underway by authorities today to apprehend kidnappers responsible for two abductions—that of Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., in New York City, and that of John actor, Chicago speculator.

At the same time it was revealed that Chicago authorities were guarding 40 prominent citizens to prevent attempted abductions, after Factor had disclosed that the men who kidnapped him had a book of prospective kidnap victims.

From Albany it was reported that national guardsmen were prepared to engage in an extensive man-hunt for their kidnapped officer, Lieut. O'Connell, Jr.

Agents representing the family of August Luer, Alton, Ill., banker, recently abducted, said they were negotiating with his kidnappers for his release, but that definite action was held up because of a failure to receive any note bearing Luer's handwriting.

Services In Our Churches

HOLY TRINITY LUTHERAN

East State st. at Woodland ave. Rev. George D. Keister, pastor.

First Sunday after Trinity, Sunday school, 9:45. (Judges 4:14-15). Paul Wilms, supt.

Leaders are a necessity. Some one must go ahead. It is a sad day when those at the head of the procession are divorced from God. There is bound to be wrong deed nations. Leaders contrary and disobedient to the will of God can only finally offer the road to destruction. It should be great day of rejoicing when leaders are in line with the will of God. Any people can be deeply thankful when the purposes and plans of God are honored and obeyed by their leaders.

The people of Israel soon found out that rulers and captains who trusted in God, could be safely trusted and followed. The deeds of past ages are recorded in history. The declines and advances of the Jews were marked by their faithfulness and their disobedience. To every God-fearing and God-loving person, the refuge that counts most is to be God. The highest and most blessed help cometh from the Lord who made heaven and earth. Modern times and ways are no exception.

Morning worship 11. Sermon: "Nevertheless."

"The mind of man is subject to reaching convictions. If properly arrived at, they are held as correct. The disciples were born and trained fishermen. They knew the business and schemes of fishing from the beginning to the end. That was their life work. On one occasion they saw that the supposed information was far from being perfect. The Great Master knew more than they. These men were honest and sincere enough to put aside their pride and experienced knowledge and follow the word of the Son of Man."

We have a right to follow the dictates of our own mind and consciences if the conclusions have been properly reached. Yet if the command from our Lord comes clearly and surely, then there is to be no denial of the precedence of His ways. This is the way that we may want to do. That is the way that our Lord wants us to do it. The Christian will not hesitate to do the suggested way of Christ. "At His Word," the will and mind of man must obey."

CHAPTER 30

"Ladies and gentlemen," began Martin. He spoke in a slow, clear voice that penetrated to the far end of the auditorium.

"You are probably wondering at the basic motive that has caused you to be called here this afternoon. Some of you are probably impatient at the inconvenience it is causing you. So I must tell you that it was at my instigation that this has come about. If you feel like blaming anybody, you must blame me and not the police department or the district attorney. In view of some of the new facts that have just been brought to light in connection with the murder of Julius Brandt, the district attorney has been kind enough to give me the opportunity of availing myself of this information in your presence."

Martin paused for a moment. There was an anxious hush. He caught the look of uneasy expectancy in the faces that confronted him.

Margaret Manning, her eyes averted, Gats Perino, his lower lip thrust out defiantly, his huge bawled arms folded across his chest, Sigmund Sterne, making a poor effort to appear unconcerned, George Billings, shifting uneasily in his seat, Angelica de Milo, fidgeting with the string of blue glass beads, Mallory, drumming his manicured and restless fingers on the plush upholstery of his arm-rest, Martin waited a few moments. Apparently no one was anxious to draw attention to himself by breaking the silence.

"You are all sitting in the positions which you originally occupied on the opening night of 'Phantom Fingers.' It has been established by Lieutenant Grady beyond reasonable doubt that it would have been impossible for anyone sitting beyond the radius of these positions to have had time to leave his seat, murder Brandt, and return to his seat. The time element is very vital. It would have been quite impossible for anyone sitting in one of these aisle seats—"here Martin indicated with a hand the seats immediately behind George Billings on one side of the aisle and Dudley Mallory on the other side—"to have committed the murder in such time as was available to him."

"As regards the empty inside seats in the nearer vicinity of Brandt the people occupying these on the night of the murder have been ruled out as suspects from the obvious fact that they would have had to brush past the occupants of the aisle before they could reach Brandt. You can see for yourself that there is not enough room for them to have slipped past their neighbors undetected. The passage between the rows is very narrow. A person trying to get in or out of one of the inside seats in the dark would of necessity have brushed against the people in the aisle seats."

"Even supposing that the murderer could have done so he would not have had time to resume his place before the lights were turned on again. Neither would he have had time to reach the back of the auditorium and make his escape that way."

"Furthermore we have the evidence of Mr. Hertz, the producer of the play, of two ushers and of the press agent Gregory to the effect that there was no one beside themselves at the back of the auditorium when the lights were turned on. The ticket speculators left after the second act. The critic George Lansdowne was the only person to walk up the aisle and pass along the back of the auditorium before the murder was committed. Julius Brandt was alive when Lansdowne left, according to the evidence of independent witnesses."

Martin paused again. There was a dead silence in the auditorium. He could see by the set faces of the audience, the straining eyes that they were beginning to realize in what direction his remarks were leading.

"Aside from the exits through the lobby and the emergency exits which you see from here and which were closed at the time of the murder, there are two other exits from the auditorium which some of you do not know about."

Other Exits

"Behind the left stage box is a door which connects with the back of the theater. Down here—" he indicated the orchestra pit and its covering dush through—"there is another door through which the musicians emerge during such productions as call of an orchestra. It leads under the stage and comes up opposite a dressing room near the stage door. There was no musical sequence, as you may recall, during the performance of 'Phantom Fingers.' The pit was covered up with plants. Both this door and the door behind the box were locked by the stage manager before the performance. The keys did not leave his possession during the entire evening. The other duplicate keys were in the possession of Julius Brandt himself, who as you know, was co-owner of this house with Mr. Burton. The keys were found on his body at the time of his death."

"I mention this because it leads to the logical assumption that the murderer did not make his escape under cover of darkness through either of these doors. The door behind the box would have been difficult—almost impossible—for him to reach. If he had, after the crime, sped down the aisle and plunged into the orchestra pit—again there would have been barely time for this maneuver—he would have found himself confronted by a locked door."

"The pit and the back-stage premises were thoroughly searched by the police on their arrival. Everybody back-stage could satisfactorily account for his actions, up during the time that the house was darkened, and according to the evidence of the stage doorman, the stage carpenter and myself—who were talking together at the stage door during the greater part of the third act—nobody escaped from the house that way."

Martin thrust his hands deeper into his pockets, and shifted his position.

"Now," he continued, "some of you may be thinking that I have been indulging myself in some very unnecessary recapitulation. You all know the circumstances. But I have reminded you of them, because more than a week has elapsed and I wish to be sure that the details of the situation when Julius Brandt was murdered are clear in your minds."

"By this time, I presume that you have realized that we have narrowed down the field to the small group of suspects that is now present. From any one of the seats which you now occupy, the murder could have been committed with comparative facility. With the exception of the police, the District Attorney, Miss Manning and Mr. Burton, who is representing Brandt, there is nobody in this house who was not here on the night of Monday, the 18th, nobody who might not have had a hand in this particularly revolting crime."

Martin panted again. He pointed dramatically to the seat over which the white dust cover lay. He could see the eyes of his listeners following the direction of his outstretched finger, could almost feel them boring through the shroud to the mute, tell-tale stains that lay beneath. Not one of his listeners had managed to expunge from mind the memory of that gruesome bath of blood in which the body of Julius Brandt had been found.

"There is the seat in which the murder was committed," Martin's voice, tense and compelling, cut the silence like a knife. "It is in the precise condition," repeated Martin significantly, "I think you will understand my meaning." His eyes blazing with suppressed excitement, searched in turn, the faces around him. "Before I go any further, I shall give the murderer one final chance to confess. I need not point out to you the wisdom of such a course. I shall wait half a minute."

He took out his watch.

There was a silence that almost deafened in its completeness. The audience sat rigid in their seats, scarcely seeming to breathe under the acuteness of the strain. George Billings' eyes seemed to be starting from their sockets. Mallory's upper lip was imprisoned in his teeth. Margaret Manning's bosom rose and fell tumultuously. Sigmund Sterne was shaken about the jaw's. The defiant look had faded from the face of Gats Perino. His expression was inscrutable.

The seconds dragged into infinity. Finally Martin closed his watch with a snap.

None Comes Forward

"Very well," he said, grimly, "the murderer has refused to come forward. He has been given his last chance and now the law must take its own course. The police have been working on the solution of this shocking crime. Their efforts have been consistently handicapped by lack of co-operation. A large reward has been offered by Mr. Burton for the apprehension of the criminal. If there is any among you who could have thrown light on the matter before this, he or she had not seen fit to do so."

"I propose now," Martin paused deliberately, "to show you precisely how Julius Brandt was murdered. And I propose also to inform those of you who are innocent in what manner the weapon was disposed of."

Here the district attorney stepped forward from his seat in the center of the front row and spoke a few words to Martin in a low tone. Martin nodded. He turned again to face his listeners.

"The district attorney suggests," he began, "that for purposes of elucidation and in order better to reconstruct the actual crime, that C.2 should be occupied. You will then be able to witness the exact manner in which death was brought about."

A nervous rustle passed over the spectators.

Half way back in the house a plain clothes man detached himself from his aisle seat and shambled toward the footlights, turning, as inquiring look upon the district attorney. The detective sat down in C.2, apparently unperturbed by any grim associations, his huge bulk screening a large portion of the dust sheet, his head and shoulders towering above the back of the seat.

Merrell Puts Ban On 'One-Eyed' Autos

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, O., July 15—"One-eyed" motorists beware or the state highway patrol will get you.

One of the first campaigns planned by State Highway Director O. W. Merrell for the newly created state highway patrol will be directed against motorists driving with improper lights, he said today.

Claiming improper headlights are extremely hazardous to other motorists, the director will ask that his police force insist upon all drivers keeping the cars in first class condition.

"I want to tell the people of Ohio that these patrolmen will not have general police powers and are specifically prohibited from participating in labor disputes," Merrell said.

"We expect the patrol to be composed of high-class men of unquestionable honesty and integrity. The patrol will be dedicated to service of the Ohio motoring public in Ohio."

Appointment of a superintendent of police will be the first move in creating the force, Merrell said. The appointment probably will be made within a week.

F. D. R. MAY CALL FOR PAY BOOST

Will Debate Possibilities With Johnson Tomorrow

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 15—Tomorrow aboard President Roosevelt's yacht somewhere on the Potomac river may be shaped a fateful decision to call upon all American business to raise wages and cut working hours right away.

Hugh S. Johnson, boss of the recovery administration, who for days has been studying this idea for obtaining the quick boost in the purchasing power of the masses, will fly down and report to the President on its possibilities.

The plan would involve having every line of business from the big factory down to the corner store, agree willingly and without waiting for adoption of a code of fair competition, the vehicle provided by law to spread employment, to boost wages and give industry self-regulation.

Johnson admits some concern about the "white collar" man. Agreements among industries to spread work and lift pay are helping the ordinary laborer, he finds, but most of the trade codes do little for the big middle class. He holds that a general increase by all American business would reach this group, and thereby tremendously increase purchasing power.

Another dance will be held at Liberty Park, Washingtonville, next Tuesday night.

THE GUMPS—JUST BREAK THE NEWS TO MOTHER

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH—TOWNSEND ZANDER CAME RIGHT OUT AND LAID HIS CARDS ON THE TABLE. HE TOLD MILLIE THE FACTS—HOW HE DUPED HER MOTHER WITH FALSE PAPERS UNTIL HE NOW OWNS EVERYTHING THEY HAVE—AND THEY ARE WORSE THAN PAUPERS—HE HAS GIVEN HER THIRTY DAYS TO BECOME HIS WIFE OR SEE HER MOTHER GO TO JAIL FOR NON-PAYMENT OF THAT NOTE—WHAT WILL MILLIE DO?

THIRTY DAYS—THEN I MUST GIVE HIM MY ANSWER—IF I REFUSE HIM—HE'LL SEND POOR MAMA TO JAIL—OH—I SHUDDER AT THE THOUGHT OF IT—IT'S UNBEARABLE—

OH, WHAT HAVE I EVER DONE TO DESERVE THIS? CRUEL FATE—WHAT WILL BECOME OF DEAR MOTHER AND ME NOW?

WHAT WILL SHE SAY WHEN SHE LEARNS THE TRUTH—HER HEART IS BREAKING ALREADY—ALL HER FORTUNE LOST—STOLEN FROM HER BY THE MAN SHE THINKS SO HONORABLE.

POOR MOTHER—HOW PEACEFULLY SHE SLEEPS—HOW WILL I EVER BREAK THE NEWS? IT WILL KILL HER—

HITLER'S WAY
IN THE U. S.
FABLES

By Arthur Brisbane
(Copyright, 1933, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THE ROOSEVELT administration, taking charge of business, with codes establishing wages, hours and days of work, seems violent to some, but what do you think of Chancellor Hitler and his laws that threaten with death anybody that interferes with his plans for running the country's industry as it should be done?

Big business in Germany, far from objecting, says it is delighted with Hitler's program. Krupp von Bohlen, one of Germany's greatest manufacturers, is delighted, and predicts all kinds of wonderful German prosperity.

HERE IN THE United States, while codes are prepared to end strikes and make them impossible, 85,000 workers in the garment trades are called out in New York. The strike may be settled today. Such strikes will not be possible when the new industrial recovery scheme starts working, if it works successfully.

Strikes are impossible in Germany, Italy, Russia; lockouts also impossible.

A NEW YORK hospital and the police tell an interesting tale of a baby. Two mothers, in the maternity hospital together, had babies. One baby died at birth, the other baby lived. The mother whose baby lived did not want it. She was not married. The other mother, with a cradle ready, asked, "May I look at your baby? He is so beautiful." The mother said, "Do you want him?" The mother carried home the substitute baby, but her husband would not keep it. "No baby unless it's our own," said he.

Now the baby becomes the principal character. It was taken back to the hospital. Nobody wanted it there. It was taken to the Elizabeth st. police station and "booked" as a foundling. Police took it to the foundling asylum. They could not find the mother to punish her for abandonment.

IT SAYS in a book with which you are familiar, "Take heed that ye despise not one of these little ones; for I say unto you, that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my father which is in heaven."

When a baby, not wanted, goes to a foundling asylum, it usually does not live long, and the "angel" of that small baby may soon "behold the face of my father, which is in heaven."

It might say, on arriving, "I'm not here to complain. I simply represent the civilization that produced me. If I had been a Chow puppy, anybody would have been glad to take care of me."

Baptist Church To Hold Bible School

A summer Bible school under the auspices of the Baptist church directed by Rev. A. C. Westphal, pastor, will open Monday. The school will be conducted in a tent on the field west of Reilly stadium.

Four of these schools have been held by the church. Last year, the pastor reports, many were turned away for lack of accommodations, the enrollment being 250.

This year the school will not be departmentalized, but will be an assembly school entirely, and the program will be entirely different. Volunteer workers will assist with the children. Music will be a special feature, with a junior choir. Gospel choruses will be taught. Bible drills, lessons, and "Eye-Gate" messages will be given. Rev. Westphal will each day give a series of Bible truths, using objects to teach from.

One feature of the school will be that every child will have his picture taken, and that picture will be thrown on the screen some night during the school. Pictures of the children in the school taken three years ago will also be shown.

The sessions have been shortened and will last about one and one half hours. School will be held each morning beginning at 9. Children of all ages are wanted, and volunteers are being called for to help care for the children. There will be no enrollment fee.

The school is being held in connection with the interdenominational evangelistic campaign, conducted nightly in the tent by Rev. H. R. Bunch of Leavittsburg.

Road Improvement Plans Completed

LISBON, July 15.—Plans for the improvement and reconstruction of State Highway 14 or the Cox highway from the East Liverpool-East Palestine road east to Unity have been filed with the office of the division engineer at New Philadelphia by County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk.

The office of Kirk has also completed plans and specifications for the reconstruction of State route No. 7 through the City of Wellsville, and these will go to the New Philadelphia office within the next week or 10 days.

Rapid work is progressing on the detail plans for the reconstruction of State Route 14 between Columbiana and the intersection of the East Liverpool-East Palestine road, and this date is expected to be ready to submit to the division engineer's office within the next 15 days.

The division office, following a close check of these plans, will immediately forward them to the office of the state highway department at Columbus.

It is believed here that these three projects will be authorized by the state highway department this season. The projects will be financed by state and federal aid funds.

Caught in High Tension Web

Entangled in high tension wires at Dallas, Texas, the occupants of this plane experienced high tension on their own account when they were obliged to come back to Mother Earth via a rope as shown (arrows). The fliers, Charlie Large and Marion Taylor, both of Dallas, were uninjured in the unorthodox "landing."

'Melody Cruise' Begins Week Of Film Entertainment Here

WITH the installation of a new sound improvement device at the State theater Sunday comes the late musical comedy film, "Melody Cruise."

The new device makes clearer the voices of the actors and especially improves musical numbers—hence the Sunday and Monday picture, with several new song releases, should be a treat.

Ruggles, Harris in Cast
"Melody Cruise" has a fine cast headed by that lovable comedian, Charlie Ruggles; Phil Harris, radio and stage entertainer and recently starred in a three-reel musical, "So This Is Harris"; Greta Nissen, Marjorie Gatenon, Helen Mack, Chick Chandler and June Brewster.

The picture is a musical production with innovations in rhythmic dialogue... Its frivolous and spicy story is set to music, but lacks the conventional routine of interruptions to the continuity of the picture.

"Temple Drake" Coming
The much advertised and publicized story, "Temple Drake," comes to the theater Tuesday and Wednesday.

Lovely and talented Miriam Hopkins plays the title role and she is supported by Jack La Rue as the hated and dreaded "Trigger," the part which George Raft turned down flatly... William Gargan, whom we can't forget for his excellent work as the butler to Leslie Howard in "The Animal Kingdom," William Collier, Jr., Irving Pichel, Sir Guy Standing, Florence Eldridge (Mrs. Frederic March) and Elizabeth Patterson...

Popular Lee Tracy comes to the screen Thursday in "Private Jones," seen here in "The Girl in 419," Emma Dunn, Donald Cook, Walter Catlett, Russell Gleason, Frank McHugh, Shirley Grey and others go to make up the exceptionally good supporting cast.

Tracy, one of the screen's most versatile actors, is cast this time

Elkrun School Debt Low; Chief Resigns

ELKTON, July 15.—At a meeting of the Elkrun township board of education, it was announced that, after the payment of salaries to all teachers, the board would begin the fall school term with an indebtedness of about $900 as against a debt of more than $5,000 one year ago.

The resignation of Ray S. Lowery as president of the board has been accepted, and a successor will probably be selected at the August session of this group.

It has also been determined by this board that free transportation will be furnished Elkrun township children entitled to attend the Lisbon high school. Full tuition charges owed by the board to the Lisbon board of education have been paid.

Electric Chair For Kidnapers Is Expert's Proposal

NEW YORK, July 15.—It will "be a very fortunate and comfortable day for the people of this country when some kidnaper sits down in the electric chair," in the opinion of Edmund Pearson, America's foremost writer on real life crimes.

"The crime of kidnapping is one which cannot be explained by people who try to account for all crime on the ground that it is a matter of sudden passion or impulse," said Pearson.

"It is a piece of carefully thought out and calculated devilishness. The kidnaper plans to extort money by torturing people. The men who plan kidnappings ought never to be allowed outside of prison again."

Pearson believes swift and sure punishment, particularly of murderers, offers a solution of the crime problem, citing the example of England and Canada. Ten years of murder trial study also has convinced the historian of the Lizzie Borden murder case and other sensational American crimes that 80 or 90 per cent of persons formally accused of murder are guilty.

However, Pearson does not believe that all convictions are proper or that all verdicts of "not guilty" are mistakes.

"A great many guilty people get off scot free—there's little doubt of that. On the other hand, I could cite many acquittals which were quite correct—in the famous Hall-Mills trial, for instance. It's my opinion that all three of the defendants were entirely innocent—and the jury found it out."

Pearson holds that it virtually is impossible for an innocent man to be "railroaded" to the electric chair.
